NECOBELAC training Program

The project training programme envisages courses for trainers (T1) and replication activity at local level (T2) in Europe and Latin America. To date, the project partners performed T1 courses in Brazil, Italy, Colombia, Spain, and Argentina. Numerous training activities were delivered at local level.

More information on the training course in Buenos Aires and photos are available on the PAHO Argentina bulletin "Capacitan profesionales argentinos en proceso de publicación y acceso abierto".

Rome, Italy

The Istituto superiore di Sanità (Italy) and the Instituto de Salud Pública/Universidad Nacional Bogotá (Colombia) signed a collaboration agreement (2011-2014) in order to develop

- scientific and technical cooperation on public health issues of common interest;
- dissemination of joint research results and health information;
- exchanges of researches and personnel at different levels.

In this cooperation framework, an initial joint activity is starting on "environment and health".

NECOBELAC takes part in national and international events

"Training across national frontiers: mid-term results of the NECOBELAC Project", a NECOBELAC contribution will be presented by ISS partner at EAHIL (European Association of Health Information and Libraries). The workshop will take place at the Koç University in Istanbul, Turkey, between 5 and 8 July 2011. The main theme of the workshop is "Active learning and research partners in health".

Attention NECOBELAC trainers!

Please, keep us informed about the replication activities that you are organizing in your countries and institutions, after attending NECOBELAC training courses for trainers.

We will be pleased to offer advice and send you the project printed material.
